Why You Should Choose Hunter Warfield

As Your Construction Industry Collections Partner

Hunter Warfield is focused on superior client service and is committed to taking collections to a new level. Through innovative technology and flexibility we provide collection solutions tailored to meet our construction industry client's business needs.

We are very proud of our expertise in the construction industry; it has allowed us to partner with organizations such as Pro-filesPlus, Nemeon and the NRCA. In this competitive marketplace we adjust our strategy to focus in areas where our clients will benefit the most. We invest a significant amount of time and resources into every account to create a unique collection opportunity. Our focus is to improve cash flow while retaining customer loyalty.

Just a glimpse of today's Hunter Warfield:

Empowering our People

Hunter Warfield's greatest asset is our people. Through an extensive on-site training program, our collectors are certified in everything from collection laws to advanced negotiation tactics. We continually demonstrate the knowledge to adapt and resolve all of your collection issues and deliver results!

Understanding our Clients

Hunter Warfield takes pride in the extensive knowledge we have of our clients. We are able to adjust or alter collection and communication methods to meet your specific needs. From our collection approach through our reporting method, everything is tailored specifically to your business.

Understanding your Customers and their Assets

Knowing the reality of each financial situation before speaking with your customer adds a significant benefit to the negotiation process. By determining assets, judgments, secured creditors and credit limits, we uncover their ability to pay your bill often before we even speak with them.

Always Professional

Every time we speak with one of your customers we represent not only Hunter Warfield, but your company as well. Overlooked by most agencies, we take pride in our representation of your good name. We symbolize true professionalism in everything we do.

Trust

There is a difference between saying something and actually doing it. Your account executive can describe to you in detail how we implement each of the topics above. Few things are more important to Hunter Warfield than gaining your trust. Trust enables us to work together and ultimately return more of your money.

Always on Target
